PILE DRIVER RETURNS. To Be Used in Rebuilding Wharves

in This City.

The pile-driving and wharf-building outat of the Clark & Winston Company of this city, which has been employed in building a dock and pler for the Cabin Branch Mining Company at the mouth of Quantico creek, has completed the work, and was last night brought back to this city by the tug Camilla. Next week the pile driver will be put in service rebuilding wharves on the river front. The pier built at Quantico for the Cabin Branch company is to be used for the shipping of iron pyrites to Alexandria, Baltimore, Philadelphia and other points where sulphuric acid making plants are located. The material is brought from the mines, about four miles away, by a narrow gauge railway, which runs out upon the pier to the vessel to be loaded.

Within the past year the water about the plant has been greatly deepened, and the pier is built so as to accommodate large barges and sailing vessels that will come to Quantico to load the acid-making IRON BARGE HERE FOR TIES
